THINGS TO KNOW

- Education and training strategy enable users to set out their perspective on the best way to transfer skills.
- Emerging skill needs may require new innovative approaches relative to current training practice, either by using: a) groups of highly specialised trainers with high mobility or b) standardised materials to be delivered across EU through 'Train the trainers' programmes.
- Stakeholders suggest further strategies to be considered, including 'Network and exchange information of employees/experts/employers', 'Digital e-learning' and 'Work-based training'.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Most stakeholders and sector associations show preference for a VET strategy based on standardised programmes (in native languages) spread by 'Train the trainers' across EU.
- SMEs tend to give preference to a strategy that is based on groups of highly specialised trainers with high mobility.
